

Sand Man Historic Tug

Overview

The Sand Man tugboat is on local, state and federal historic registries and has been in our Boatworks facility for over three years. The nonprofit that owned the vessel, the Sandman Foundation, has dissolved and left the Port with an over $30,000 delinquent storage payment. In July of last year, we initiated the public auction process on the vessel and no bidders emerged. At that time, the Port assumed ownership of the vessel.

Proposal for Preservation

Due to the state of deterioration, it will never be seaworthy again and has passed the point of any sort of realistic restoration. We have accepted a proposal from the Historic Maritime Foundation, (historicmaritimefoundation.org), on an alternative path for preservation.

One element of the proposal allows organizations, nonprofits, or other entities with a historic connection to apply to obtain certain components from the Sand Man. If your organization would like to receive an application to be considered, please contact info@portofolympia.com.

Key Elements of Proposal

Salvage and Reuse of Historic Components

- Important elements of the vessel—such as the engine, masts, wheelhouse—would be carefully removed and preserved.

Public Display and Interpretation

- Selected artifacts could be installed within the community, with interpretive signage that tells the story of the Sandman and Olympia's maritime history.

Archival Preservation

- The vessel would be documented through historical records, storytelling and digital preservation. This ensures the Sandman remains accessible to future generations

Organized Distribution Process

- Artifacts would be inventoried and distributed to historic preservation entities, prioritizing local organizations that can preserve or actively use them.
